

Chapter #16: Is Alaska Attorney General Cori Mills Part of a Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organization?

By David Haeg 9-20-26

In early 2025, five Alaskans (including Borough Mayor Edna DeVries and Borough Mayor Peter Micciche) asked for a meeting with Governor Michael Dunleavy and Attorney General Treg Taylor. The Alaskans wished to present evidence of ongoing crime, corruption, and cover up by Alaskan judges (including many on the Supreme Court) and in Alaska's Department of Law (DOL) itself – evidence that would require the Governor to appoint an independent "Mollen" type commission to publicly investigate.

However, the Governor's and AG's offices asked the five Alaskans to instead meet with Deputy AG John Skidmore. When the Alaskans stated their evidence directly implicated Mr. Skidmore in the corruption (including lying, provably, to legislators attempting to investigate), the DOL asked them to meet with Deputy AG Cori Mills instead. When they agreed, the DOL then tried black mailing the five Alaskans to render the meeting ineffective: stating it would cancel the meeting if the Alaskans continued to insist on presenting and discussing evidence of corruption in Alaska's judicial branch and DOL. (Click here to see email thread.) This is disturbing because the Governor's office had acknowledged the February 12, 2025 meeting was to present and discuss evidence of corruption in Alaska's judicial system and DOL. (See email thread.)

During the subsequent and somewhat bizarre video-taped meeting, evidence of judicial/DOL corruption repeatedly surfaced – and every time Ms. Mills stated she would not discuss or acknowledge it. (Click here for pertinent video excerpts.) (Click here for entire video.) When finally cornered on the DOL's duty to investigate judicial/DOL corruption, Ms. Mills stated:

"I'm saying that I'm not the person to verify the information and propose solutions. I don't have that authority, the Attorney General doesn't have that authority."

(See excerpt at 23 minutes, 03 seconds and full recording at 57 minutes, 57 seconds.)

Ms. Mills is currently Alaska's acting Attorney General (our state's highest law-enforcement official). And has stated on-the-record that the Attorney General does not have the authority to investigate evidence of systemic crime, corruption, and cover up within Alaska's Department of Law, which the Attorney General heads and is responsible for.

The above statement by Ms. Mills simply cannot be true.

Her statement can only mean she is a member of “Group A”: those directly stealing our PFD, life-savings, property, liberty, and children. Or is a member of “Group B”: those not involved in committing the initial crimes but are covering up for “Group A”. (Likely to avoid the bad publicity and loss of public confidence if “Group A” is exposed – see “Mollen Commission” below.)

New York City’s 1994 Mollen Commission (appointed by Mayor Dinkins to publicly investigate): “To cover up their corruption, officers created even more: they falsified official reports and perjured themselves to conceal their misdeeds. In the face of this problem, the Department allowed its systems for fighting corruption virtually to collapse. It had become more concerned about the bad publicity that corruption disclosures generate than the devastating consequences of corruption itself. As a result, its corruption controls minimized, ignored and at times concealed corruption rather than rooting it out. Such an institutional reluctance to uncover corruption is not surprising. No institution wants its reputation tainted – especially a Department that needs the public’s confidence and partnership to be effective. Since no entity outside the Department was responsible for reviewing the Department’s success in policing itself, years of self-protection continued unabated until this Commission commenced its independent inquiries.”

(See also “Operation Greylord” - 17 judges, 48 lawyers, 8 police officers, 8 court officials, and a state legislator indicted. Nearly all found guilty.)

A growing number of good, strong, and true Alaskans are determined to figure out exactly what is going on. Our first action will be a peaceful sit-in at noon on December 11, 2026 (just after new Governor takes office) in Anchorage’s Atwood Building (Governor’s office), until the new Governor appoints an independent “Mollen” type commission to publicly investigate. And pledges to make public the 2022/23 Kenai Grand Jury recommendations on corruption in Alaska’s judicial system. (After the Kenai Grand Jury investigated Alaska’s judges/DOL for two years, Alaska’s judges dismissed the Grand Jury’s indictment of a former judge and then sealed the Grand Jury’s recommendations to the public before the public could see them, in spite of Article 1, Section 8 of Alaska’s Constitution, which states: “The power of Grand Juries to investigate and make recommendations concerning the public welfare or safety shall never be suspended.”)
